

Raynsway in the community

This overgrown area had become intimidating as it is very close to the play area, people had been using this area to hide in; to drink alcohol in and it had been used as a dumping ground.

Commercial property developers Raynsway Properties teamed up with landscapers Greenability to carry out work on the Play area at Garden Lane in Thurmaston and are pleased to announce that work to clear the overgrown vegetation has been completed.

Tom Watkinson states, "Raynsway were delighted at the opportunity to help out the local community, the park has improved dramatically since our work was carried out"

Martin Jolly, Managing Director of Greenability comments, "Greenability was keen to work in partnership with Raynsway properties on this project; after realising how seriously they take their corporate social responsibility. Being a like minded company we were keen to help to make a difference in the community with the landscaping improvements for everybody who visits the park."
